

Insects (Asia, Africa and South America) Many insects are high in protein and contain important fatty acids and vitamins. In Thailand it's common to find fried grasshoppers, crickets, scorpions and worms on sale in the street. In Cambodia fried tarantula are a delicacy; people eat the legs two at a time.