

A man builds a square house with four sides. Each side faces south. A big bear comes past his house. What colour is the bear?

Answer:

It's white. It's a polar bear. The only place where all the walls can face south is in the centre of the North Pole.