

Witness A Statement

Yesterday at about 12 noon I saw a fight outside the local SupaSave supermarket. There was a tall guy with glasses, and a shorter, muscular guy. The tall guy accidentally pushed his trolley into the other guy's car. There didn't seem to be much damage, but the short guy went crazy and jumped out of his car. He was shouting and screaming at the tall guy. He looked a bit scary, to be honest. Then the short guy, he starts trying to kick the other guy. Naturally, the other guy tried to defend himself. I mean, who wouldn't? That's when they both started punching and laying into each other. It was a proper fight alright. Anyway, after a couple of minutes the police arrived and broke them up.

Witness B Statement

Yesterday at about 12.30 p.m. I was doing my shopping, as I usually do on a Friday, when I saw what happened. I couldn't miss it. I was coming out of the supermarket right behind them. There were two men, you see. One tall guy and another guy who was much shorter than him. He was a bit fat to tell you the truth. Well the tall guy seemed to deliberately push his trolley into the man's car. I couldn't believe it. He broke a tail light and put a very large dent in the side. Naturally, the little guy got out of his car to see the damage. Then the tall guy started shouting at him, calling him all kind of names, saying something about him insulting his wife. Then he started hitting the little guy. I'm sure it was him who threw the first punch. Then, they were both fighting. It must have gone on for about five minutes before the police finally arrived.
